Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God – Jonathan Edwards delivered this famous sermon to his own congregation in Northampton, Mass, to profound effect, and again on July 8, 1741 in Enfield, Conn. Surprisingly he spoke quietly and without emotion. According to one account, he read the work in a level voice." Despite his calm manner, his listeners are said to have screamed in terror, and Edwards had to stop several times to ask for silence.

Considered the most famous sermon ever preached, it was the catalyst for the First Great Awakening.
